Looking at Literacy - August 2023

Did you know...
Everyday conversations with your child build your child's vocabulary, even routine trips to the store and talking about what is seen can expand your child's language skills. So have some good conversations while doing your errands.

Some Ideas to connect Home and School

- Set up a reading area at home for your child with books to look at and read.
- When riding in the car make it a game to see how many letters of the alphabet your child can find as they see signs.
- Set aside time in the evening to read aloud to your child and talk about what was read.

Become familiar with your child's school website...it houses lots of parent information.
